

About Our Candles

Firefly Lites Soy candles do not contain additives of any kind. You are purchasing soy candles that are 100% soy, not a "blend". We do not utilize synthetic stabilizers or paraffin.

We use a large amount of premium, highly scented oil in each candle. In fact, some imperfections in the appearance of the candle are expected due to the large amount of scent that is mixed with our soy wax. We want to ensure that you receive the most strongly scented candle on the market. Our fragrances are of such quality, we are able to use an amount that will not compromise the clean burning characteristics of a true soy candle.

Please remember that these candles are handmade and hand poured to create a unique effect. Soy based candles such as ours will provide you with a colorful creamy finish. The soy tends to mellow the colors out, so you may notice that some colors such as red will be a bit lighter and creamier in appearance.

When ordering candles uncolored, the natural color will vary from off white to amber and pink in color. This is due to the color of the candle fragrance itself.

We do not use additives just to make the candle look pretty! Soy wax has natural imperfections (don't we all!). There is no such thing as a 100% pure soy candle that's appearance is 100% flawless. The color you choose, the scent you choose and the container or pillar type you choose all will affect the appearance of the candle in one way or another. Imperfections are also a telltale sign of a true hand-poured, 100% soybean candle. This is completely natural and will not interfere with the scent or the way the candle burns. Occasionally white marks may appear on the candle due to the nature of the soy wax. The benefits of burning soybean wax candles by far outweigh any appearance imperfections.

Due to the natural nature of the soy wax and omission of harders, stabilizers and other chemicals usually found in traditional candles, you will find that some of our pillar candles will drip more than others. This is dependent on the shape of the pillar purchased, for example; the triangle oblique pillar will drip more than a regular round pillar. This is due to the unusual shape and taper of the candle. Where a round pillar is more uniform up, down and side to side. As with any candle, please be sure to burn all pillars in a candle bowl/container to ensure any wax that drips down from the candle is contained.

Our candles are hand poured when ordered, we do not stock inventory. This provides you with a true custom candle because you are able to select the color and scent and receive the freshest candle possible. For this reason all sales are final.

Our candles are made from our hearts and hands.
